

Wolff Bergen is a french composer, multi-instrumentalist and producer living in Sweden. He started releasing material in 2019 and quickly worked closely with contemporary dancers on shows and films compositions.

His work is mainly based on experimentation, trying to create something different every time, learning new instruments, building his own or recording sounds from his surroundings to create music with.

He created music for venues like Baryshnikov Arts Center, Lincoln Center, 92NY, Göteborgs Operan or Orsolina 28. Most projects are made in his home studio but he got involved in an improvised live performance with 4 dancer in Antwerp for the Fade Into You Festival in 2023, and working on material that fit live performances.

While most of his projects are towards contemporary dance, Wolff also composes for indie films and even working on a small video game project.

Some of his recurring collaborators are Flock, Emilie Leriche, Shawn Fitzgerald Ahern...
